LAND SURVEYORS (AMENDMENT) ACT
(ACT 34 OF 1999)

Please be informed that the Land Surveyors (Amendment) Act comes into operation on 1 Mar 2000.

2 The Act requires every land surveyor (and not only land surveyors who conduct cadastral surveys) to be registered. However, those who are not already registered and have been providing survey services other than cadastral survey work shall be allowed to continue practising for four years wef 1 Mar 2000. The four-year grace period is to enable them to sit and pass the examinations prescribed by the Board in order for them to be registered. On expiry of the four-year period, a further grace period of two years may be granted by the Minister for Law on a case to case basis.

3 During the grace period, your assistant surveyors need not be approved by the Board under Section 4 of the Land Surveyors (Amendment) Act.

4 The Board urges you to send your assistant surveyors to attend the Cadastral Surveying Course conducted by the Singapore Institute of Surveyors and Valuers. The course is acceptable to the Board for approving assistant surveyors.
